Icorene 1210 is a hexene based linear low density (LLDPE) Polyethylene. It has very elastic properties and is ideal for applications where flexibility and toughness is needed. Icorene 1210 is fully stabilized, offering outstanding UV protection which makes it suitable for outdoor uses, such as industrial tanks or marine applications.

Customers who need to address challenging requirements, for example in application areas such as modular subsea buoys and road furniture, benefit from the good ESCR (Environmental Stress Crack Resistance) and outstanding impact properties.

Furthermore, Building & Construction applications, such as mortar tubs, profit from the high abrasion, toughness and high impact and breakage resistance.

Product benefits

- Flexible and tough
- Very high impact resistance
- Fully UV- and heat-stabilized
- Very high ESCR
- Easy processing
- Easy to mould grade with excellent mechanical properties
- Good surface finish
- Available in color compounds

Specific applications

Modular subsea marine buoys

Pontoon

Fish boxes

Small industrial use tanks

IBC's and bins

Safety collar

Mortar tubs

Traffic bollards
